GALLOWAY TWP., NJ—The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey awarded seven fellowships to Stockton College students as part of its Board of Trustees' Fellowships for Distinguished Students Program. Student scholars apply to the program and if selected, each student is awarded up to $1,000 to further scholarly study. This program, now in its twentieth year, is an important part of the College's year-round emphasis on academic excellence and fosters effective partnerships between students, faculty and the community. Members of the selection committee consisted of students, faculty and staff members.

The fall 2006 winners received their awards at the Dec.13 meeting of the Stockton College Board of Trustees. Recipients are:

- Marcy Howland of Hamilton, NJ, a senior who is majoring in Marine Science was recognized for her project: "Something Fishy Going on in New Jersey Estuaries: The Effects of an Invasive Parasite on American Eel Biology."
- Lisa Longo of Linwood, NJ, a senior who is majoring in Literature, won the fellowship for her work on "A Spell to Find the Right Words: A Play."
- Sara R. Moulton of Brigantine, NJ, a junior who is majoring in Literature, won the award for her work "A Poet's Voice Inspired by Art."
- Anthony Pomarico of Audubon, NJ, a junior who is majoring in Psychology, was awarded this fellowship on the basis of his work "Comparative Differences in Perceived Attractiveness of Individuals Based on Knowledge of their Income."
- Demetrios Roubos and Lisa Palmieri's collaborative work entitled "Information, Privacy, and Data Sanitization" also earned this award.
