Galloway Township, NJ –The Stockton Center for Community Engagement (SCCE) will sponsor free naturalization classes at Stockton University's instructional sites in Hammonton and Atlantic City beginning this fall.

"Part of the mission of the SCCE is to strengthen democratic values and civic responsibility. Offering naturalization classes speaks to our commitment to strengthen democratic values and civic responsibility," said Merydawilda Colon, executive director of the center.

Classes in how to become a U.S. citizen will begin on Monday, Sept. 14 at Kramer Hall, 30 Front St. in Hammonton, and continue on Mondays from 6 - 7:30 p.m., through Monday, Dec. 14.

Classes at the Carnegie Center, 35 S. Dr. MLK Blvd. in Atlantic City, will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 15 and continue on Tuesdays from 6 - 7:30 p.m., through Tuesday, Dec. 15.

Classes will also be offered in the spring, with dates to be announced in January.

No prior registration is necessary. The naturalization classes will be facilitated by SCCE Student Fellows Briana Simon and Alejandra Londono. Class materials will be derived from the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services Website, under Citizenship Resource Center, at www.uscis.gov/citizenship.
