Galloway Township, NJ- The Stockton Center on Successful Aging (SCOSA) will focus on digital portrait photography by exposing older adults to new techniques during a free workshop at the Noyes Museum of Art of Stockton College.

Judith Heyman, a SCOSA volunteer art instructor who is a local artist, will share time-honored techniques and a few of her own tips to help participants take their photography to the next level. The workshop is Wednesday, March 19, 2014, 10:30-12 p.m., at the Noyes Museum, located at 733 Lily Lake Road in Oceanville (Galloway Twp.).

Participants must have a working knowledge of their cameras and are asked to bring their cameras and a few recent portrait photographs.

Advanced registration is required by calling the Noyes Museum at 609-652-8848. Visit the SCOSA website at www.stockton.edu/scosa for more information, updates and cancellation procedures.
