Galloway Township, NJ- The Stockton Center on Successful Aging (SCOSA) is sponsoring a wool felting workshop for older adults to make a St. Patrick's Day wool sculpture.

Wool felting is a craft that molds wool into sculptures by puncturing the fibers with a barbed needle. The workshop will be held on Saturday, March 16, 2013 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the Noyes Museum of Art of Richard Stockton College, located at 733 Lily Lake Road, Oceanville, New Jersey.

Niki Giberson, owner and operator of Swan Bay Farm in Port Republic, will instruct the class. Participants will receive all of the materials and instruction to make a four-inch tall Leprechaun, and they will learn to use a barbed needle especially designed to sculpt wool. There is a $20 materials fee for the class.

Visit the Noyes Museum, call 609-652-8848 or email Jillian at jillian@noyesmuseum.org to register. Visit the SCOSA website for updates and schedule changes at www.stockton.edu/scosa or call 609-626-3591.
