

HOSPITALITY & TOURISM MANAGEMENT

THE RICHARD STOCKTON COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY

Hospitality & Tourism Management Studies Cooperative Education Program

Did you know?

- Stockton's Hospitality and Tourism Management Studies (HTMS) Program provides a structured educational strategy integrating classroom studies with learning through productive work experiences in the Hospitality and Tourism industry;
- Stockton has qualified student candidates with sought after skills and work experience;
- Stockton's HTMS Interns are prepared employees with flexibility to address your human resource needs.
- Stockton seeks employers that will provide paid work experiences to students in professional fields they are considering for career paths.
- The employer in return benefits from a pool of potential talent for their work team in an environment that allows them to preview the skills with making an initial long term commitment.

Our Cooperative Education Objectives are:

- To challenge students to academically develop and apply their learning in the workplace
- To provide an environment where students learn self awareness and apply their learning in the workplace
- To provide foundational elements of career development for their future
- To provide a culmination of the hospitality program by preparing the students for real management situations that they will likely have to deal with by pulling from the program course foundations.
- To provide the students with an opportunity to practice their analytical, oral and written communications skills to apply their substantive learning.
