From The Director's Chair

Alumni, colleagues and friends I am happy to share some highlights of another event filled academic year at the Richard Stockton College NJ for the Hospitality & Tourism Management Studies (HTMS) program.

Over 50 newly minted HTMS graduates for academic year 2013/14 are working the hospitality industry making us proud in careers ranging from event planners, food and beverage supervisors, front office supervisors, nightclub managers and more. In addition, many of our current students have embarked on exciting summer jobs, formal internships study abroad opportunities and the Disney College Internship Program.

Our student club, the Hospitality Society, had a dynamic year with the all female leadership team. These budding epicureans "dined around" at the Ram's Head Inn, Mount Fuji Hibachi, The Palm Steakhouse and the Melting Pot this year. These Dine Arounds are fun and educational providing our students the opportunity to meet general managers, chefs, owners and operators of these establishments who take the time to meet with the students to provide guidance and advice about the hospitality industry. In addition the members attended and staffed our booth at the NY Hotel

Fall '13—Fall '14

Show in November as well as volunteered for the Greater AC Concierge Association (GACCA) Wine Tasting Art Show Scholarship fundraiser in February at the AC Country Club. Seven Stockton HTMS students received scholarships from this year from the GACCA as a result of this fundraising event.

The Hospitality Society planned and hosted a fun filled Flair Bartending Seminar that was documented on video to be shared and promoted. In addition, the Hospitality Society designed and sold hoodies for their members and had a successful year end Luau to say thank you to their membership and introduce next year's officers. The Hospitality Society is a proud representation of our HTMS student body and they promote the spirit of hospitality at Stockton.

This academic year the HTMS program hosted several educational forums engaging students, faculty and the local HTMS community.

Each fall we host a Distinguished Guest Lecture Series. In November 2013 we hosted Founder and Chairman Emeritus of Dolce Hotels and Resorts, Andy Dolce as our Distinguished Guest Lecturer to an audience of over 70 students. In addition, HTMS faculty, members of the career center, school of business faculty and

Donna Albano, Honorary Member Andy Dolce, Jane Bokunewicz

Stockton Seaview staff were in attendance. In addition, Andy Dolce was also our honorary inductee and speaker for the 2014 Eta Sigma Delta Hospitality Honor Society induction ceremony in April. Honor students participated in volunteer work for the Atlantic County food bank as their charitable initiative

On November 25, 2013, in collaboration with the Atlantic Cape Community College Hospitality faculty we hosted a Woman in Hospitality Leadership Panel discussion.

Over 75 students were in attendance. Twelve hospitality industry executives participated in the panel representing all aspects of the industry.

On the academic side of the house the HTMS program had a successful search for a new faculty member and we look forward to welcoming Dr. Christina Cavaliere. Dr. Cavaliere is an environmental social scientist and is currently managing and researching climate change and sustainable tourism projects. She has ten years of sustainable tourism related international project management and training program design experience with a technical background in projects involving SMEs, sustainable agriculture, climate change, agritourism, bio- cultural conservation, human geography, supply-chain management, capacity building and rural economic development. Her current research is contributing to knowledge involving the social construction of climate change, farms and food. We look forward the her arrival and new dynamic she will bring to our program.

Over the course of this academic year the HTMS program made some curriculum changes that will go into effect fall 2014. As a result of our five-year program review and our pursuit of AACSB Accreditation we have more fully developed the tourism course sequence adding a Tourism Research course and new elective called Destination Management.

We also worked with adjunct Jennifer Aarons and the Holistic Health Minor (HHM) review committee to align our Spa Management elective as an HHM minor elective course. We saw an increase in enrollment in this class and now the alignment with the HHM Objectives makes this course more marketable for all students seeking the HHM minor.

It has been my pleasure to serve as program coordinator for the last four years. The baton has been passed to Dr. Bill Quain as the HTMS Program Coordinator for the next two years. We look forward to his leadership as we move forward!

All the best,

Donna Albano

Dine-Around Ram's Head Inn

By: Christina Oleszewski

If you're looking for a fine dining experience, then the Ram's Head Inn Restaurant in Galloway, NJ is nothing short of just that. The Hospitality Society and friends, on October 15th, was privileged to dine at the Ram's Head with a four-course meal. The Hospitality Society hosts restaurant "dine arounds" to expose students to different dining experiences for the budding epicureans in us. The décor and ambiance at the Inn was beyond classy and stunning. The night began with a little crash course on fine dining and when exactly to use one of the many forks on the table. The table display and china was beautiful with each of our own menus placed at our seats. The first course began with steamed littleneck clams served in a white wine garlic butter sauce with chopped chorizo. I could have eaten 3 more plates of clams, I just couldn't get enough. The second course was a baby green and frisee salad, a colorful dish with walnuts, apples, cranberries and enoki mushrooms topped with a sweet balsamic vinaigrette. For the entree, we were given 5 options. These included broiled tilapia, chicken potpie, char grilled sirloin, pan seared filet of salmon, and crab cakes. I chose the crab cakes, which were served with cooked vegetables and mashes potatoes. Everything was cooked to perfection and not a single thing was left on my plate, or anyone's for that matter. To conclude the night we were given 5 dessert options. You couldn't go wrong with any of the choices such as seasonal cobbler, cheesecake, key lime pie, crème brulee, and fresh berries. Once dinner was concluded, we were lucky to be given a tour and brief history about the Ram's Head Inn by General Manager K. Affifi. Between the food, service, and fine dining not one guest would leave unhappy. The Hospitality Society truly enjoyed themselves and the amazing experience at the Ram's Head Inn..

By: Mary Bennett

Hello. My name is Mary Bennett. I am junior here at Stockton majoring in Hospitality & Tourism Management. I was recently chosen to win a $500 scholarship from an organization known as SKAL. SKAL is a professional organization of tourism leaders around the world, promoting global tourism and friendship. Covering 85 nations and regions, SKAL has over 20,000 members in 450 different chapters. My scholarship was awarded to me by the Atlantic County Chapter, which is comprised of over 20 members. The president of the chapter, Allen Doerr and his fellow 'skaleagues' invited my mother and me to a wonderful dinner at Carmine's Italian Restaurant located in the Tropicana.

I had the opportunity to meet such an amazing group of industry professionals that are not only incredibly successful but also tremendously personable and friendly. Many of the members work at the different casinos throughout Atlantic City and were able to share their insight with me about the different properties. I am extremely honored that I was given an award from such a wonderful group of people. Any amount of money given to a college student is much appreciated; I think we all can attest to that. I was also thrilled to have Professor Donna Albano join us for the outing. It was a great night with great company. As an organization starting in the 1930's, SKAL has grown quite tremendously and continues to do so. I am very thankful to my family, friends, and hospitality professors that motivate me every day to work hard. A special thanks the Atlantic County SKAL chapter for an enjoyable evening and for choosing me as their 2013 scholarship recipient!

I had the pleasure of being the guest speaker in March for the annual Business Etiquette Dinner. The evening featured a five-star (I'm also a self-proclaimed food critic) six-course meal prepared by Chartwells. The objective of the evening was to prepare the audience for professional dining occasions such as business luncheons or dinners, dining interviews and networking events. In today's quick paced business environment, and competitive job market, opinions are made quickly. This etiquette dinner helped teach the do's and don'ts of dining and how to avoid faux pas to keep a positive image while managing to the dining experience.

The menu covered more difficult items such as grilled shrimp, hot soup and a leafy arugula and spinach salad with plump tomatoes. Throughout the evening, students learned the history and purpose of an intermezzo course (to cleanse the palate)to the appropriate number of bites to but up at a time (2). We also discussed suitable dinner topics, as well as conversations to avoid. And viewed clips from comical dining scenes depicting all of the "don'ts" in dining such as Julia Roberts in Pretty Woman attempting her first taste of escargot to keep the evening light-hearted and informative. Remember your p's and q's next time you are dining in the company of others, as well as your b's and d's (bread plate and drink glass).

Cheers!

Each semester, the students of Dr. Michael Scales' Event Planning & Catering Management class host a charity event to raise proceeds for the charity of their choosing. This year, the students chose the Fisher House Foundation. This foundation is best known for providing homes where military and veteran's families can stay at no cost while their loved ones are receiving treatment. Since its inception, the Fisher House has saved these families an estimated $200 million in costs for lodging and transportation.

On April 2nd, with the help of Stockton Faculty and the approximate 70 guests that attended the event, the students were able to raise over $2,300 that is to be donated to the Fisher House Foundation. Dr. Scales and his students had the opportunity to create their own menu, come up with an original theme, and were able to fully execute this event while learning the ins and outs of catering and having fun while doing it. This course, offered here at Stockton, proves that it only takes a few individuals coming together to make a huge difference in the lives of others.

On the morning of April 27, 2014, 28 students and one honorary member were formally inducted into Eta Sigma Delta (ESD), the International Hospitality Management Society in front of 88 guests. ESD has over 90 active chapters throughout the world and it is administered through the Council on Hotel, Restaurant, and Institutional Education (CHRIE). After introductory speeches from both Dr. Donna Albano and Dr. Joseph Lema, the faculty advisors of Eta Sigma Delta, as well as Provost Kessleman and Dean Wagner, the inductees and attendees had the pleasure of hearing from the 2014 honorary member, Mr. Andy Dolce, the founder and chairman of Dolce Hotels and Resorts, which is the management company that manages the Stockton Seaview Hotel and Golf Club. Mr. Dolce shared his insights and encouraging words with the audience. Professor Lema introduced each inductee that included a short biography. Each student was presented with an Eta Sigma Delta pin, cord, and certificate. The 2013-2014 President of Eta Sigma Delta Sofia Sansweet, provided remarks and applauded the inductees on their professionalism, leadership, and scholarship. She also went into detail about the values of excellence, leadership, creativity, service, and ethics that make up the foundation of ESD to which the newly inducted members are challenged to maintain. The speech concluded with five students each reading a point of honor. Heather Dodson, Mary Bennett, Christina Oleszewski, Darren Wolfe, and Melissa Remer. These points of honor were then followed by students pledging an oath during a candle lighting ceremony, to uphold the values of ESD. The ceremony concluded with pictures and light fare.

Eta Sigma Delta Inductees, Honorary Member Andy Dolce, Professor Donna Albano

Students inducted into Eta Sigma Delta

Service activities for ESD occurred during the month of March with students volunteering in multiple events including the Community Food Bank of South Jersey, where students worked in a mobile pantry which was stationed in various locations in the area including Ventnor, Galloway, and Egg Harbor City. Even in snow and freezing temperatures, students were handing out food and helping the community. Students also had the opportunity to volunteer and participate in the New Jersey Travel Industry Association's Conference on Tourism held at The Golden Nugget in Atlantic City. Special Grant Award Helps Stockton College Educators and Stockton Seaview Executives Establish Sustainability Plan at the Resort

A team of Stockton professors and a Stockton business undergraduate student used cutting edge techniques to assist the Stockton Seaview Resort's executive team in identifying sustainability strategies and opportunities. The project was funded by a special grant awarded to the student, Kristen Comose, and professor, Bill Quain (Hospitality and Tourism Management). Professors Cliff Whithem and Michael Scales (both Hospitality and Tourism Management) joined Quain and Comose in the planning and execution of the research project. All three, Drs. Quain, Scales, and Whithem teach classes at the resort.

In a two session sequence, the Stockton College team utilized a relatively new technique called "Q-Mapping". In a "Q-Mapping" session, participants learn to ask open ended, positive questions. The group of Stockton Seaview Resort Executives came up with 100+ questions within the 90 minute time frame.

The questions are then grouped into categories and displayed in a two dimensional map. The final step was an idea-generating session in which the participants utilized a series of six "thinking hats". The result was an amazingly effective list of action items.

Professor Quain first developed this three part strategy when the government of Bermuda asked him for assistance in reviving their hotel and tourism industry. Professors Scales and Whithem, helped to modify the system for use in private business. The process was turned into a case study. The three professors and Comose have been invited to submit their Manuscript to the e-Journal of Social & Behavioral Research in Business.

Right: Professors Quain and Scales clarify questions as Kristin Comose lists them.

HTMS Alumni Return to Speak to Co-Op Classes

By Sofia Sansweet

Hospitality students completing their CO-OP this semester, got a taste of the real world during their annual Speed Networking event on Wednesday October 29, 2014 at The Stockton Seaview. Stockton Hospitality Alumni Brian Sena, Corey Glenn, James Updike, Dave Chianese, Alicia Szelc and Caitlyn (Bradley) Weiss (Pictured) graciously spent the afternoon giving insight to the CO-OP students about how they transitioned from graduating college to starting their careers. The Alumni each had their own table, and spoke to a group of about four students every 10 minutes. The Alumni discussed how they started working in their current fields, and how important

Students are taught throughout their college career about the importance of networking with others for their future. As big as the world is, it is surprisingly small, and crossing paths with someone you have met before is inevitable. Never burn your bridges was commonly advised by all the Alumni. You never know who you will be working with or for. Creating this speed networking event is a great way to prepare students graduating or not, for life after college. This event teaches students how to get comfortable with networking and using it to benefit their future careers.

Happy Holidays to all our alumni, friends and fans. I don't know what YOU asked Santa to bring you this year, but at Stockton, we asked Santa Saatkamp for a large casino hotel on the beach. (Hey, we stand by our motto "Go BIG or go home."). Personally, I am ready to move my office to a waterfront suite. Keep your eyes on the news. This is a game-changer!

I am sure that you have LOTS of questions about the Showboat purchase. At this point, I am not at liberty to discuss any final plans, but let's just look at a few key points that are already evident:

1. Stockton is planning on offering classes on the "Island Campus" as early as next fall. We are planning on having some of our courses in that first wave.

2. No other college has a hotel of this size and prominence. Certainly, no other college has a complete campus in a property like this. This is bound to mean more Hospitality and Tourism majors at Stockton.

3. President Saatkamp has indicated that this is more than just a campus. It is a redevelopment plan for Atlantic City. You can probably expect to see more community outreach to the Hospitality and Tourism industries.

4. What will it be like for Hospitality Majors to go to school in a large, ongoing hotel? I believe we are going to see a new kind of graduate in a few years. These students will have a new confidence, and a familiarity with large scale operations.

5. Finally, let's look at the most important aspect of this project. Our students will see what it is like to think big, dream big, and then ACT big!

With all these things going on, we need the help of our alumni and industry partners more than ever before. Don't look at this purchase and think, "Well, Stockton is obviously going to be focused first and foremost on its own property." Instead, please help us with the larger mission – to build Atlantic City by building a base of economic development, and to build a better, more productive college graduate. Join us at every opportunity, and let's share our resources to create a more sustainable future for all of us.

And let's not forget our other initiatives. For example, Stockton is actively working to achieve university status. Keep your eyes on the news, because this place is on the move!

What does all this mean for our students and alumni? They will all be able to leverage their credentials as Stockton's reach and influence grow. And the growth isn't just at the top. We added two new faculty this year – Christina Cavaliere and Tara Marsh, bringing our total to 9 academic professionals, all with a wide range of real-world experience.

I joined the faculty a few years ago, and this year, I became the Program Coordinator. It's an easy job. All I have to do to keep the place humming along is to follow in the footsteps of our founding Director Cliff Whithem, and the work of former Director Donna Albano. Add a great group of colleagues to the mix and life is good!

Speaking of good – we are about to graduate our largest class ever this May. If you have a need for an energetic, capable and motivated young executive, get ready to interview one of the 65 soon-to-be-alumni who will walk across the Graduation Stage. I can tell you from personal experience that these are some of our best ever. They have it all – high tech and high touch skills and tools. Give them a chance and benefit from their dedication to our industry.

Keep in touch with us, and feel free to call me directly at my Stockton number (609) 652-4265. Or shoot me an email at bill.quain@stockton.edu. I would love to hear from you. Let us know what we can do for you and your businesses. It is a great time to be in the Hospitality and Tourism industry. Yes, there have been some economic setbacks, but the Guests still want to travel, dine, socialize, cruise, stay in great properties and be entertained.

Let's work together to give it to them!
