

18

WAYS TO CUT YOUR COSTS FOR COLLEGE ATTENDANCE

-  Graduate on time, within four years and don't risk running out of financial aid eligibility.
-  Take advantage of Stockton's flat rate tuition and enroll for at least 16 to 20 credits a semester. You are charged the same price from 12 – 20 credits.
-  Select a major and stick to it. Seek advice from Academic Advising and the Career Center.
-  Don't withdraw from classes. Take advantage of the drop/add period to evaluate your course selection.
-  Accelerate your progression to graduation by taking approved courses during the summer.
-  Work during the fall and spring semesters, if your coursework allows time.
-  Work during winter, spring and summer breaks.
-  Limit loan debt by borrowing only what you need to pay for tuition & fees and room & board, if necessary.
-  Current students – apply online for Foundation Scholarships from December through March. Find the application on Stockton's homepage.
-  Check out the Scholarship Resource Center on the Office of Financial Aid webpage and apply for as many scholarships as possible.
-  Follow us on Twitter @stocktonfinaid to learn about additional scholarship opportunities.
-  Shop and prepare cost effective meals in your apartment.
-  Carpool or take the train and shuttle to campus.
-  Arrange your class schedule to allow for fewer trips to campus.
-  Take on-line courses to reduce expenses associated with commuting. This also allows more time for working.
-  Consider taking some classes at the other Stockton University instructional sites closer to your residence.
-  If you live on campus, choose one of the less expensive room and board options.
-  Always, always, always BORROW CONSERVATIVELY.