Galloway Township, NJ - The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey will recognize Redinia Gilliam-Mosee and Frank Fitzpatrick as the first two individuals to complete its Certificate Program in Basic Gaming Management.

The event will take place at 5 p.m. on Tuesday, November 27, 2007, in Room 305 of Stockton's Carnegie Library Center, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Blvd. and Pacific Ave. in Atlantic City.

Gilliam-Mosee is a retired Vice President of Government Relations at Bally's and a longtime resident of Atlantic City. Fitzpatrick is Director of Security at the Trump Plaza Casino. They are the first individuals to complete the basic gaming management coursework developed by the Stockton Institute for Gaming Management in alliance with Spectrum Gaming Group, LLC.

Mark Juliano, CEO of Trump Entertainment Resorts, will receive the first annual Excellence in Gaming Industry Leadership Award from the College and from Spectrum Gaming Group. Juliano has been a longtime supporter of Stockton's gaming management education and training programs and was Honorary Chair of the Stockton College Annual Spring Scholarship Gala, held at Trump Taj Mahal in 2006 and 2007.

"Tuesday's ceremony represents another milestone in our partnership with Atlantic City and the tourism, hospitality and gaming industries," said College President Herman J. Saatkamp, Jr. "It is symbolic of the commitment we have to meeting the region's educational and training needs. The fact that we will be awarding these certificates to Redinia Gilliam-Mosee and Frank Fitzpatrick, outstanding representatives of the field, makes Tuesday's event particularly special."

Basic Gaming Management Certificates/page 2

The Basic Gaming Management Certificate is designed for those who currently work or who are seeking to work in the gaming industry. The courses have also attracted individuals from firms associated with the industry.

“As the industry matures and becomes more sophisticated, education can play an important role in helping Atlantic City distinguish itself from the competition as a place with an indigenous and well-trained workforce,” Saatkamp said.

Since its inception approximately 18 months ago, the Stockton Institute for Gaming Management has trained thousands of casino workers in customer service skills and more than 100 industry managers in leadership and advanced management skills. Curricula for the courses offered are under the leadership of Provost David Carr; Dean of the School of Graduate and Continuing Studies Deborah M. Figart; Executive Director of Stockton’s Institute for Gaming Management Israel Posner; and Director of Stockton’s Institute for Gaming Management and Professor of Management Lewis Leitner; Institute training staff and consultants and Spectrum Gaming Group, LLC.
