Galloway Township, NJ- Stockton After Hours, an evening programming series that offers social, cultural and interactive activities to Stockton students after normal business hours, was recently recognized during the October 14-17 National Association of Campus Activities (NACA) Mid-Atlantic Regional Conference.

Stockton College competed in the NACA Graphic Arts Competition, which is designed to recognize the talents of NACA members and to share outstanding promotional material prepared for a variety of campus programs.

Joseph Lizza, Stockton's assistant director of the Campus Center for Operations and Programs, explained that a series of logos, designed by the College's Graphics department for the Stockton After Hours program, was entered into the competition.

Stockton After Hours offers 14 different entertainment programs, including movie nights, game show competitions, coffee houses, quizzo, crafts and karaoke, and each program has its own logo.

Gary Schenck, a resident of Toms River, came up with the overall Stockton After Hours theme design and created each of the logos. Schenck earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in graphic design from The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey in 1996, and he has worked as a graphic artist in Stockton's Graphics department for the past five years.

Lizza said, "Student engagement is our number one priority. Stockton After Hours provides programs that cater to the tastes of a diverse student body. The award-winning logos are used on posters and for the College's website, in addition to Stockton After Hours promotional materials." -more-

Last year, Stockton After Hours won NACA's Outstanding Social Program Award, and in 2008, Joseph Lizza was awarded NACA's Outstanding New Professional Award.

The National Association of Campus Activities was established in 1960 to advance campus activities in higher education, and today NACA has grown to a membership of more than 1,000 colleges and universities.
