Galloway Township, NJ - Stockton University's new Island Campus in Atlantic City will offer 23 summer courses beginning July 1, offering students the first look inside the university's 1.73 million-square-foot facility on the Boardwalk.

A wide range of courses will be offered, including: Introduction to the Health Sciences, Ecology and Saltwater Fishing, Exploring the Deep Sea, Marketing Principles, Introduction to Macroeconomics, Mapping Hispanic Cultures, Introduction to Public Policy, Project Management Approach to Educational Change, Introduction to Screenwriting, and A History of TV Cooking Shows.

Students visiting the Jersey Shore as well as students enrolled at Stockton can take advantage of reduced rates by taking three courses for the price of two when one course is at the Island Campus.

In approving the plan, the board of trustees said it wanted to promote the new Atlantic City campus and attract both residents and visitors to enroll in summer classes there and at Stockton's other locations.

Under the plan, one four-credit undergraduate course will cost $1537.04 in tuition and fees. Students taking three courses where one is at the Island Campus will pay $3,074.08 in tuition and fees. There is also one-time $35 transportation and safety fee charged for the summer semester.

In addition, more than 305 summer courses - 127 of them offered totally online - will be offered at the Galloway main campus and the Manahawkin and Hammonton instructional sites. All summer undergraduate courses, regardless of location, are discounted by $75 per credit.
